

01.

Autistic communication styles and preferences vary from person to person.

These may look like...

- Preferring less eye contact
- Direct and honest remarks
- Highly articulate
- Preferring not to speak at all
- Copying someone else's style
- Sharing deep interests
- And many, many more....

02.

Connection is often made through the sharing of deep interests.

Deep interests bring Autistic folk joy and focus, and foster emotional well-being.

03.

Some Autistic folk are highly articulate and some do not speak at all.

Autism doesn't always 'look' like what we expect.

It is up to the Autistic person how they communicate.

It is important for all people to embrace different communication styles.
